

About Your Pilot

Steiger is not unlike the well-known billionaire adventurers drawn to the sport of ballooning. He is highly educated and accustomed to moving about in sophisticated circles. He sails the sky and the sea with equal daring. He's a true renaissance man and world explorer. You want a man like Steiger in your basket when you're navigating mountains and crossing deserts.

Steiger is an FAA-certified commercial balloon pilot and balloon flight instructor. He's also an accomplished stunt pilot and flyer of skydivers and BASE jumpers. His three FAA-certified hot air balloons are equipped with advanced safety features and can accommodate one adventurer or ten.

Others have a bucket list. Steiger has a basket list...a list of peaks to summit and sights to see from the basket of one of his incredible balloons.

Catch the spirit of adventure and go along for the ride!

Choose Your High Adventure

Mountain Crossings

Pick your peak. Incredible alpine crossings are available near some of the country's most popular resort locations, including Aspen, Steamboat Springs, Park City, Vail and Moab. Float over the Rocky Mountains of Utah and Colorado. No two crossings are alike.

Single Flight Adventures :$2400 +

Extreme Skydiving

Even experienced skydivers can find the idea of parachute jumping from a balloon absolutely terrifying. Little can compare to the thrill of intentionally falling out of a balloon gondola at altitude. Just watching others exit a balloon thousands of feet above the earth can be a heart-thumping experience. No skydiving experience is necessary to make a tandem jump from one of Steiger's balloons. All necessary training is provided by an experienced tandem master and video is included.

Balloon Tandem Jump : $985+
Tandem Skydive Observer: $750+

Tandem Balloon HALO Jumps with Oxygen: $2985+
High Altitude Jump Observer: $1250+

High Altitude Balloon Flights

The typical balloon flight is conducted at low altitude and designed to maximize scenery viewing below. Trust us when we say there's nothing typical about flying with Steiger! Imagine being suspended in a gondola flying higher than Everest. Too high? How about 10,000 feet high in a basket? Pricing from $750 to $3000 or more. Call us to learn more.

Good Things to Know

The Best Laid Adventure Plans are Subject to Mother Nature's Approval.

Every Incredible Balloon Adventure is very carefully planned. Locations are scouted and wind and weather forecasts are monitored. If your flight is canceled due to weather, there is no refund. Your flight will be rescheduled for a mutually agreeable day and time. It is important to allow at least one weather back-up day in your schedule when planning your incredible balloon adventure.

Takeoffs are Optional But Landings Are Mandatory.

There are two types of normal landings in a balloon. The first is called a "stand up landing" and feels a lot like coming to a stop in an elevator. The landing can be so soft, you may not even realize you've landed. The second type is a "high wind or run-on landing". With a high wind landing, the gondola sets down, tips over on its side and drags for a bit until the balloon is fully deflated and comes to a halt. It can sometimes require the entire length of a football field to stop. The so-called "crash landings" are crowd pleasers and Steiger maintains a keen eye for safety at all times.

You Fly and/or Jump at Your Own Risk
You will be required to sign a waiver.

"Because of its basic simplicity, there are few catastrophic failures or emergencies in a hot air balloon."
