At 28,000 feet, the temperature is somewhere around 25 to 35 degrees below zero. Without oxygen, you can expect to be usefully conscious about 30 seconds.

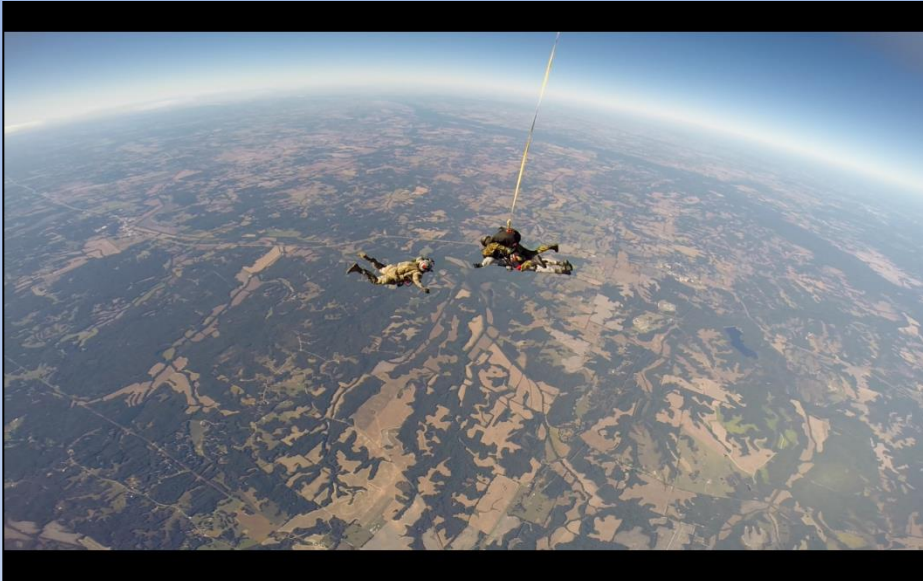

Where do jumps take place? We jump from a skydive center located in Whiteville, TN, less than an hour from Memphis, TN. (The nearest hotels are in the town of Somerville.) We also sometimes offer special jumps out of other locations.

How much skydiving experience do I need to complete a tandem HALO jump? None. We'll teach you everything you need to know to jump and land safely.

Is this safe? Skydiving is inherently risky. You could die. You will be required to sign a release of liability. That said, the guy strapped to you throughout your HALO tandem jump is an expert jumper who will be using the best possible equipment and taking all steps humanly possible to make your adventure as safe as it can be.

What kind of plane is used? You'll jump from a specially modified B90 King Air or similar aircraft.

What physical requirements must I meet? You must be in excellent health, weigh less than 225 lbs and not have had surgery within the past 18 months or donated blood within the past month. (Sometimes we can accommodate slightly heavier jumpers.)

How long is the freefall? You will exit the aircraft at approximately 28,000 feet (depending on conditions and FAA approval) and experience up to two minutes of freefall.

Can you describe the program? You can complete your HALO Adventure in one day if the weather is favorable. Because skydiving is very dependent on weather, we strongly advise you to budget at least two days for your adventure. Plan to arrive at the jump zone the morning of your scheduled jump. You'll spend the entire morning getting fitted for equipment and training with our expert HALO jump team. If the weather is favorable, you'll complete your jump in the afternoon. If the weather is not good, the following day will serve as your weather back-up days.
